

Topical Modules to the National Health Interview Survey (NHIS) in 1987 and 1992, and will sponsor a third to be administered in 2000. While these national data have proven extremely useful in monitoring risk factors and screening related to cancer control, the national sample does not provide adequate numbers of racial-ethnic minorities to analyze particular domains within them, such as age by gender and income or education. The CHIS is a new telephone survey designed to provide population-based, standardized health-related data for California counties. Initiated by the California Department of Health Services (CDHS) Center for Health Statistics, the Public Health Institute (PHI), and the UCLA Center for Health Policy Research (UCLA), the survey will largely be funded by California sources. The 2000 CHIS CCTM will be similar in content to the 2000 NHIS CCTM, and will be administered to one sample adult in 55,000 households. California, the most populous state in the nation, is also the most racially and ethnically diverse. Specific populations of interest include Black or African American, Hispanic or Latino, Asian, Native Hawaiian or Other Pacific Islander, and American Indian or

Alaska Native. NCI anticipates comparing the CHIS and NHIS data in order to conduct comparative and pooled analyses that will enable better estimates of health-related behaviors and cancer risk factors for smaller racial/ethnic minority populations. In this way, NCI anticipates improving its estimates for cancer risk factors and screening among racial/ethnic minority populations. Frequency of response: One-time. Affected public: Individuals. Types of Respondents: U.S. adults. The annual reporting burden is as follows:

TABLE A.12-1.—ANNUALIZED BURDEN ESTIMATES FOR CHIS DATA COLLECTION

Data collection	Estimated number of respondents	Frequency of response	Average time per response	Annual hour burden
Adult Core	55,000	1	.5	27,500
CCTM	55,000	1	.2004	11,022
Totals	55,000	38,522

There are no Capital Costs to report. There are no Operating or Maintenance Costs to report.
